EXPLANATION AND SUMMARY :

The Town of Vienna has contracted with Kimmel Bogrette Architecture & Kimley Horn to review the former Faith Baptist Church located at 301 Center Street, South, Vienna, Va. (Annex) and identify potential long term uses for the property including robust community engagement. The long-term use study report will be used as a basis for discussion and decision making by legislators and key town staff. Town leadership made this purchase for both identified needs, and to strategically add to town resources for future projects and developments. Leadership and legislators want to determine the best use for this property in the near and not-so-near future.

Staff from the Parks and Recreation Department is managing this project, under the leadership from Town Council and with strong input from and collaboration with community stakeholders. The Town Council has communicated its goal of completing this study in June 2023.

Kimmel Bogrette Architecture & Kimley Horn presented at the May 8, 2023 Council conference session the engagement summary and next steps for the Annex Long Term Use Study. After reviewing the community feedback, it is becoming apparent that a recreation pool and fitness center are becoming the front runners. In response to Town Council feedback to clearly understand the costs associated with the program, Kimmel Bogrette suggests authorizing the additional service of Business Planning & Operational Costs Study performed by Ballard King & Associates at a cost of $23,500, proposal attached. Ballard King would perform a market and operational analysis that would highlight operating cost projections and revenue generation projections for each component of a pool, a fitness center and a third option. The scope and effort for business planning services is valuable for any potential recreation facility with operating staff, fees and revenues. This study will illuminate the long-term cost and benefits of a recreation facility as well as the cost and value add of an aquatics component.
